Separate ground, sea and air warfare is gone forever. If ever again we should be involved in war, we will fight it in all elements, with all services, as one single concentrated effort.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower
Special Message to Congress
April 3, 1958

purple-suiter-An officer assigned to duty on a staff where no particular service predominates. This may be a joint staff, where all services cooperate, or a combined staff, where two or more allied nations participate. He is called purple because he loses the identity (and color) of his particular service, and the color purple is not used by any of the services. The official colors are green for Army, blue for Air Force, and white for Navy.

A Dictionary of Soldier Talk, p. 245.

Joint warfare is team warfare.

joint-Connotes activities, operations, organizations, etc., in which elements of more than one Service of the same nation participate.

Department of Defense Dictionary of Military and Associated Terms, p. 196.

An important part of this downsizing and realignment is a stronger-than-ever commitment to joint operations. No matter where we fight in the future, and no matter what the circumstances, we will fight as a joint team. The Armed Forces of the United States will never again poke as individual fingers; rather they will always strike as a closed fist.

Admiral David E. Jeremiah
"What's Ahead for the Armed Forces?"
Joint Force Quarterly, Summer 1993, p.30.

Preface

To assist student researchers in a better understanding of how the United States armed services work together, the U.S. Army War College Library presents Jointness: A Selected Bibliography.

A continuation of our July 1989 bibliography with the same title, this listing includes recently published materials covering various aspects of jointness such as joint operations, joint logistics, interservice cooperation, interservice rivalry, joint communications, and the Organization of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

For additional information, please contact the compiler, Virginia Shope, Research and Information Services Branch, U.S. Army War College Library, DSN 242-4280 or Commercial (717) 245-4280.
